

Why I Ride - Ryan Wakerlig, USAFE-AFAFRICA Occupational Safety Manager, Ramstein Germany

I am writing today to express my passion for riding a motorcycle. I understand that some people may have reservations about this mode of transportation, but I believe that it is a thrilling and rewarding experience that I simply cannot resist.

For me, riding a motorcycle is not just a means of getting from point A to point B. It is a way of life, a form of self-expression, and a source of pure joy. When I am on my bike, I feel a sense of freedom and connection with the world around me.

There is something truly special about feeling the wind rush past you as you navigate winding roads and take in the breathtaking scenery, especially here in Europe. Every ride is an adventure, and I am constantly discovering new routes and exploring new areas. I love the feeling of being out on the open road, with nothing but my thoughts and my Harley Davidson Street Glide to guide me.

I understand that riding a motorcycle comes with its own set of risks, and I take safety very seriously. I always wear protective gear and follow the rules of the road. I am also constantly honing my skills and seeking out new training opportunities to become a better rider.

In short, riding a motorcycle is more than just a hobby for me. It is a way of life that brings me immense joy and fulfillment.
